

Call for Papers

Revista Internacional de Telecomunicaciones y Radiodifusión ISSN request pending

The Revista Internacional de Telecomunicaciones y Radiodifusión (International Review of Telecommunications and Broadcasting, IRTB) is a new, open access, peer-reviewed and refereed telecommunications and radio broadcasting journal published by Centro de Estudios del Instituto Federal de Telecomunicaciones from Mexico. The main purpose of IRTR is to provide a platform for an informed and rigorous dialogue among the different protagonists of telecommunications and radio broadcasting: academicians, private professionals, public sector officials, regulators and even the general public interested in knowing about these matters.

The journal publishes twice a year research articles related to the telecommunications and radio broadcasting sector. It publishes original papers, case studies, empirical research, technical notes, book reviews as well as documents that the editorial committee considers are of interest to the community dedicated to telecommunications and radio broadcasting. Emphasis is given to regulation and competition policy issues.

The journal is published only online. It will be submitted to international indexes like EBSCO, Gale, ISI, ERIC, ProQuest, Scopus, DOAJ and Econlit.

IRTR is inviting papers for Vol. 1 No. 2 which is scheduled to be published on January 30, 2017. Last date of submission: November 30, 2016. Early submission will be an advantage for the publication process.
